

To WHom It May Concern:

As an airline employee and a frequent traveler, I can tell you that cell phone use on the ground on the aircraft can be annoying and frustrating. To extend the use of cell phones during flight would cause much distress and discomfort among passengers. The cabin environment is too small and compact to allow for loud, obnoxious calls amde by passengers who don't seem to be able to conduct themselves in public on the phone. Please to do not extend the use of cell phones during flight.